

A CO-CREATION WORKSHOP FOR HUMANITARIAN-DEVELOPMENT-PEACE ACTORS

QUALITY + ACCOUNTABILITY + SAFEGUARDING IN ACTION

After decades of promoting and mainstreaming Quality+Accountability+Safeguarding, we acknowledge that there is still a fragmented understanding and inconsistent application of related principles, standards and tools across different actors and contexts. This hinders collective progress for the benefit of communities we serve. Fortunately, we have now collectively reached a momentum to formalize the sector's learning on these three benchmarks - Quality+Accountability+Safeguarding - which make our humanitarian, development and peace activities meaningful and unique to communities. This is further reflected in our pocket guide on Quality+Accountability+Safeguarding through the project cycle.

The diverse nature of humanitarian, development, and peace activities means that no-one-size-fits-all and the search for single and simple solutions are rarely effective. Tailoring Quality+Accountability+Safeguarding requires deep understanding and adaptability from all actors working through the Nexus.

This is what this workshop is about. If this resonates with you, please join us in Bangkok!

This workshop represents a unique opportunity to go one step further in both promoting and applying Quality+Accountability+Safeguarding in a holistic and contextualised manner. It will provide you with:

- An update on Quality+Accountability+Safeguarding principles, standards and tools.
- An introduction to the pocket guide on Quality+Accountability+Safeguarding around the project cycle.
- A review of opportunities and challenges of applying collectively Quality+Accountability+Safeguarding through the Nexus.
- The co-creation of materials produced to disseminate and practically implement Quality+Accountability+Safeguarding in a joint and collective manner in your specific work context.

Learning Outcomes:

- Locate and describe Quality+Accountability+Safeguarding principles, standards and tools (the Core Humanitarian Standard-CHS, the Humanitarian Standards Partnership-HSP, including Sphere, IASC commitments and principles, and many more).
- Navigate and use the pocket booklet on Quality+Accountability+Safeguarding through the project cycle phases and the Nexus.
- Analyse and explain the rationale, and advocate for joint (all standards considered through the projects or programmes phases) and collective (all actors together as per a people-centered approach) implementation of Quality+Accountability+Safeguarding.
- Select best practices and translate these into key messages to design, co-create and produce common materials on Quality+Accountability+Safeguarding tailored to specific contexts and needs.

This will be achieved in a conducive environment enabling experience sharing and debates on opportunities and constraints for joint and collective application of Quality+Accountability+Safeguarding. It will provide an opportunity to utilise peer learning and dive into the Nexus approach.

Last but not least, the learning from this workshop will directly contribute to your job performance and leadership skills for effective humanitarian, development and peace work!
